William Tatham, Sr.

Owner

Starting from scratch and building an empire is something Bill Tatham, Sr. knows a lot about. Working his way through college as a bookkeeper, Mr. Tatham learned to invest gradually until his holdings became Consolidated Industries, a major Fresno, California conglomerate of which he is president and chairman of the board.

Tatham has taken many of his same philosophies and turned them toward major league sports, including ownership of an expansion franchise in the United States Football League, the Oklahoma Outlaws.

Tatham brought his USFL franchise to Oklahoma on July 7, hiring Bill Tatham, Jr. as his president and general manager. Unafraid of taking chances, Tatham sees a bright future for the fledgling USFL.

"We owned a team in the old WFL and things did not work out for that league," admitted Tatham. "But we have learned from the mistakes of that venture and have seen to it that the USFL has a sounder overall philosophy toward growth and development. A solid group of owners and a network television commitment have provided this league with a foundation and a future."

With his future geared by a knack for finance and a strong interest in sports, Tatham attended San Jose State University.

Tatham began his career as a management trainee in the accounting department of Nabisco at age 17 and from there entered a number of businesses as an accountant. At age 27, he became a self-employed investor with interest ranging from farming to hospitals and has developed his company into a California banking and real estate empire that is now Consolidated Industries.

Tatham's intitial professional sports venture was the WFL franchise in Portland and he currently holds a minority interest in the NBA Utah Jazz.

Native Oklahomans, the Tathams migrated from Sallisaw to Fresno where the family now resides. Traditional family ties led Tatham to select Oklahoma as the home for his USFL team.

"My family always talked of their good times in Oklahoma," said Tatham. "I figured that bringing a professional football team to Tulsa was a good way to give something back to the state my family came from."

Born on December 13, 1934, Tatham is married to Earline, who was born in Paragould, Arkansas, and they have raised three children, Bill, Jr., who serves as president and chief operating officer of the Oklahoma Outlaws; Michael, a law student at Pepperdine University, and Renee, a student at Fresno State University.

Tatham is active in the People's Church in Fresno and enjoys an occasional round of golf.

William Tatham, Jr.

Co-Owner, President &
General Manager

Oklahoma Outlaws club president Bill Tatham, Jr., represents the youthful energy of the United States Football League itself. A minority owner in the Oklahoma franchise, the 29-year-old Tatham has moved from Fresno, Calif. to Tulsa to take personal control of the Outlaws organization, providing club staffers the advantage of owner input and relations on a day-to-day basis.

Tatham personally conducts the club's key business decisions, supervises the marketing and promotions areas, and conducts sales of the team's major corporate sponsorships.

William Tatham, Jr.

To his credit, Tatham landed the state's major sports-oriented radio station, KRMG, to flagship the network game broadcasts and signed a top television production company, Winner Communications, to handle selected game telecasts and the weekly coach's show network, with former ABC television commentator Chris Lincoln as host.

"Starting a professional major league football team from scratch is a tremendous challenge," says Tatham. "But it's an enjoyable one when you have the resources such as we do in Oklahoma."

Tatham puts in the 10 to 15 hour workday, seven days a week seeing to the club's rennovated office wing in the Tulsa Metro Christian Academy. He has overseen the signing of Tulsa University's Skelly Stadium as the Outlaws' home field and has built a training facility at Metro Academy. He initiated negotiations with and later signed NFL veteran quarterback Doug Williams, who should be among the USFL's premier stars.

"We hope to prove to Oklahoma that we're bringing in a first class, major league product," said Tatham. "We'll be competitive in marketing and on the football field. It's also important to look after the future of this team, so we're not going to spend ourselves out of business."

An attorney by trade, Tatham graduated from Fresno State University in 1978 and received his law degree from Pepperdine in 1981. He entered the Fresno law firm of Kimble, MacMichael, Jackson & Upton and worked there until starting the Outlaws.

He also serves as vice president and a member of the board of directors in his father's company, Consolidated Industries.

Born December 12, 1954, Tatham is married to Shauna, a registered nurse. He enjoys golf and outdoor recreational sports and holds a private pilot's license.

Woody Widenhofer

Head Coach

Woody Widenhofer

Woody Widenhofer comes to the Outlaws following an 11-year career as an assistant in various capacities under Chuck Noll at Pittsburgh. He was assistant head coach for the past two seasons and defensive coordinator during the past five years. He joined the Steelers in 1973 as linebacker coach where he developed All Pros Jack Ham and Jack Lambert. In 1978, he coached the secondary before being promoted to coordinator in '79.

Widenhofer was a member of the defensive staff that developed the infamous "Steel Curtain" and his tenure with the Steelers includes four Super Bowl championships. Following the Steelers' fourth Super Bowl title, Widenhofer initiated an adjustment to the 3-4 scheme which helped the Steelers rank second in the NFL in sacks and fourth in interceptions while establishing a new team record for fewest rushing yards allowed per game (84.7) in 1982.

"We lost a total of nine starters over the past couple of seasons and I'm proud of the way we overcame that," said Widenhofer. "Leaving Pittsburgh after 11 years was a big decision for me. I always felt it would take a super situation to get me to think about moving and the Oklahoma Outlaws present a super situation."

This past season, Widenhofer's defense finished second in the AFC and third overall in the NFL in total defense. The Steelers led all defenses in scoring with seven touchdowns and a safety. Pittsburgh has appeared in the NFL playoffs in 10 of Widenhofer's 11 seasons as an assistant.

"When we evaluated our overall picture, we decided to go for an NFL assistant who was the number two man, one who had many years experience in professional football and one who had worked in a championship environment," said Tatham. "In Woody Widenhofer, we have exceeded our goals and expectations."

Widenhofer added, "I'm convinced the Outlaws are a first class program. The owners want to win and win fast. I'm impressed with the administration under Bill Tatham and the personnel department under Bruce Kebric and I'm looking forward to working with them."

Before joining the Steelers, Widenhofer served as linebacker coach at Minnesota (1972) and defensive coordinator at Eastern Michigan (1971), where the program went 11-0 and ranked third nationally. He began coaching in the collegiate ranks at Michigan State where he coordinated the freshman program and coached the defensive line (1969-70). His first coaching opportunity came as an assistant at Detroit's Holy Redeemer High School (1965) and he later moved to Nativity High where he was head coach and A.D. (1967-68).

Widenhofer played linebacker for Dan Devine at Missouri, where he graduated in 1965 but his career was cut short by a broken leg after lettering twice. He received a masters degree in physical education from Michigan State.

Born January 20, 1943 in Butler, Pa., Woody attended high school in Riverview, Mich. Woody's full name is Robert William Widenhofer. He and his wife Betty have a six month old son, Ryan.

Skelly Stadium

The Oklahoma Outlaws inaugurate their USFL season in Skelly Stadium, located on the University of Tulsa campus. Outlaws owner William R. Tatham said, "Securing a good facility was a prime consideration in choosing the location of our franchise." Tatham stated that the warm reception by the University initially, and in the negotiations was a major factor in choosing to locate in Tulsa.

The stadium is located between 8th and 11th streets and was opened in 1930 with a seating capacity of 12,000. It was expanded with the construction of the north stands in 1947 to hold 17,000 fans.

The old facility had become obsolete in 1964, and a fund drive was begun to expand the capacity and press facilities. By the 1965 season, a 40,235 seat stadium was ready, complete with press box elevator and an escalator on the west side serving the top half of the stands. In addition to the extensive west side expansion, a running track was removed and the field lowered to allow seating nearer the field. In addition, a new section of stands was installed at the south end, and in the summer of 1972, Tartan Turf was installed.

In July, 1979, the Getty Company made a $350,000 grant for refurbishing and repairs. Early in 1980, a modern scoreboard was installed at a cost of $350,000 which was entirely paid for by Dr. Pepper, Getty and KJRH-TV. In the spring of 1982, a new artificial turf was installed at a cost of $450,000 from funds generated through private donations and the athletic budget. Later that summer, the lighting system was replaced.

The first professional football game was played in Skelly in August of 1953 when the Pittsburgh Steelers played the Chicago Bears.

The stadium is named after W. G. Skelly, ths late Tulsa oil man and philanthropist, who donated half the money to build the original structure.

Tulsa, Home of the Oklahoma Outlaws

"There's something in the air, that you don't find anywhere but Tulsa," goes the lyric to a local tune. The lyric rings true to the 600,000 people who live in Tulsa.

It has been called America's most beautiful city and one of its most liveable. With its early growth tied to the development of the oil industry, Tulsa grew rapidly. Its progress continues as an urban pacesetter in public-private partnerships, which have been responsible for most of the city's landmark developments.

The University of Tulsa and Oral Roberts University offer Tulsans the opportunity to higher education on a private level. Branch campuses of Langston, Oklahoma State and the University of Oklahoma provide state funded college courses.

This spring that special "something in the air" is the excitement that is accompanying the inaugural season of the Oklahoma Outlaws. Tulsa can boast of a variety of sporting interests. There's a North American Soccer league franchise, a baseball affiliate of the Texas Rangers, and a hockey affiliate of the New York Rangers.

That something special in the air is Tulsa's Spirit. A spirit of enthusiasm, mixed with courage and faith. It's the spirit that has turned new beginnings into successful traditions.

Outlaw Ticket Outlets

The Oklahoma Outlaws now have state-wide ticket outlets in addition to their local outlets. Tulsa has six separate outlets and Oklahoma City has four. Stillwater, Bartlesville, Okmulgee, Enid and Ponca City also provide ticket purchasing services.

Guided Buccaneers to three playoff appearances in five years as a starter . . . Completed 53.4% of his passes in 1982 for the highest completion percentage of career although NFL quarterback rating of 69.4 was down slightly from career best 76.5 in 1981 . . . Average of 230.1 yards passing per game was best of career . . . Completed 20 or more passes five times in nine games in 1982 (including the last three), after having five such games in his first four seasons . . . Once again the toughest quarterback in the league to sack as Tampa Bay tied with Miami for the league lead with 11 sacks surrendered while Bucs were attempting 70 more passes (308-238) . . . Started 58 consecutive games (since 12/17/78 game vs. New Orleans which he played with mouth wired shut following broken jaw) and all 67 games for which he was healthy . . . Suffered only 65 sacks in those 67 games (1,890 pass attempts, once every 29 attempts) . . . Tough runner with 878 yards on career (fourth on Bucs' all-time list) and 13 touchdowns scored rushing (second on Bucs' all-time list) . . . The starting quarterback in 33 of Tampa Bay's 36 NFL regular season wins (Bucs 33-31-1 with Williams at quarterback) . . . Earned Pro Football Weekly's NFL Offensive Player of the Week Award twice during career: once in 1981 after completing 19 of 29 for 336 yard in 24-23 win vs. Atlanta (12/6/81) and also after throwing for 486 yards (30-55) and club-record four touchdowns in 30-38 setback at Minnesota on 11/16/80 . . . His 486 yards passing against Vikings now ranks as the fifth-best total in NFL history (fourth best at time) . . . Established perhaps the best single-season record for fewest times sacked in 1979 when opposing pass rushers tackled him only seven times in 404 pass attempts . . . Unanimous choice as NFL All-Rookie quarterback in 1978 (started 10 games, missed six games with injuries, including five with broken jaw suffered at Los Angeles 10/5/78) as Bucs went 4-4 in games he started and finished (AP Offensive Player of the Week after performance in 10/8/78 win at Kansas City) . . . Chester R. Simmons,
Commissioner

The career experience and qualifications that Chester R. "Chet" Simmons brings to his new position as Commissioner of the United States Football League could be referred to as "the state of the art."

Whereas other leaders of the leagues in the various professional sports come from backgrounds in public relations or law or actual participation in the sport they administer, Simmons, in an era dominated by television, brings to the USFL a career in sports television that has spanned four decades.

His background also includes a lot of "building from the ground up," experience immediately applicable to the tremendous job of launching the USFL's inaugural season.

Just prior to accepting the challenge of guiding the USFL through its infancy, Simmons was president and chief executive officer of ESPN, where his ability to build, organize, and manage an all-new entity was a prime factor in ESPN's now being recognized as the most successful organization of its kind.

From 1977 to 1979, Simmons was president of NBC Sports, where he had served as a major sports executive since 1964. During that period his capacity for organizing new enterprises resulted in the network's strong coverage of baseball, basketball, and many other sports, as well as football.

He was also a major contributor to the development of the successful "Sports World" show and highly-instrumental in securing the 1980 Summer Olympics for the network.

Simmons began his television career in 1957 when he joined Sports Programs, Inc., which soon developed into the ABC-TV unit responsible for that network's sports programming.

Thus, the USFL becomes the second professional football league with which Simmons has been directly involved. While with ABC-TV, he was instrumental in the development of the television package when the American Football League made its debut.

He continued to work with the AFL when he moved to NBC, and that association is recognized as having been extremely important to the AFL's survival through its early years and into its eventual merger with the National Football League.

Simmons was born in New York City and raised in Ossining, NY and Pawtucket, RI. An alumnus of the University of Alabama, he did his graduate work in radio and television at Boston Universtiy. He and his wife, Harriet, have four children and live in Cos Cob, CT.

Radio TV Coverage

The Oklahoma Outlaws radio and television network has been established by the Ken Reitz Company of San Diego. More than 20 radio stations will be carrying all of the Outlaws action home and away. The Reitz Company also assisted in selecting the play by play and color announcers, in conjunction with KRMG Radio. KRMG is the Outlaws Flagship station and is responsible for the production of each broadcast.

Both radio and television broadcast crews are stocked with veterans in the sportscasting field. Radio play by play will be handled by Jerry Webber. Webber is the Sports Director of KJRH television in Tulsa. He has been the play by play man for Tulsa University football and basketball on both radio and television. He also has done TV play by play for Oral Roberts University. Joining Webber on the broadcasts will be Jack Nixon, a 12-year broadcast veteran. Nixon and Webber worked on the Tulsa Hurricane broadcasts last season. Prior to that Nixon was the play by play man for New Mexico State University.

Outlaw television coverage will be handled by the ABC and ESPN networks and Tulsa's Channel 2. The Woody Widenhofer Show will be carried weekly on Channel 2. Channel 2 will also originate four games during the season not covered by the other two networks. Chris Lincoln will be play by play man and host of the coaches show. He will be joined by Seattle Seahawk All Pro Steve Largent.

ABC coverage will be headed up by Keith Jackson and Lynn Swann. The award winning Jackson is the top announcer on the ABC staff. Jim Simpson and Paul Maguire will head up the ESPN broadcast team.

The Outlaw Network was created by Executive Producer Ken Reitz, who has 20 years of experience in radio and television production. He is pictured with his wife Donna.

Outlaws Draft Summary

The Oklahoma Outlaws had a bumper crop of both open and territorial draft selections. Rick Bryan, the All America defensive tackle from Oklahoma, headed the territorial list. Arkansas defensive end Ron Faurot was the first selection in the open draft. Bryan was twice chosen all Big Eight and in his senior year, Bryan was selected All American. Faurot was selected All Conference and played three different defensive positions for the Razorbacks. Another first round selection of the Outlaws was offensive lineman Conrad Goode. Goode played at Missouri and was the Oklahoma bonus selection in the first round. Running backs were plentiful on the Outlaws draft list. Ernest Anderson from Oklahoma State was a territorial selection on the second round. Anderson led the nation in rushing in his junior year. Fullback Norm Granger of Iowa was chosen on the second round of the open draft. Tulsa's leading career rusher Michael Gunter was a territorial selection as well as his teammate Brett White. Arkansas State fullback Dwayne Pittman was selected on the fourth round of the open draft. Miami of Florida's Keith Griffin was taken on the eleventh round. Keith was a member of the Hurricanes national championship team and is a brother of former Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin. Al Rickey Edwards from Mississippi State was also taken in the 11th round. Yankton's flashy Darryl James gained more than 1600 yards in his junior year, he was tabbed in the 14th round. Cornell's Derrick Harmon was taken in the 17th round and Dell Walker from East Stroudsburg went in the 18th round. Iowa's championship bowl team was well represented on the Outlaws draft list. Offensive tackles John Alt and Joe Levelis were both taken on round three. Beefy Alvin Powell from Winston-Salem was chosen in the sixth round. More help for the offensive line came in rounds 9, 10, 12, 13 and 16 as Mike Nease, Pat Hauser, Steve Seman and Scott Gordon were selected. Territorial schools had a trio of tight ends selected by the Outlaws. Oklahoma State's John Chesley, Langston's Larry Green and Wichita State's Anthony Jones all played end in college. The wide receiver corps was bolstered by the selection of Tulsa's John Green and David Hersey, plus the Hurricane's Keith Estes. Wichita State's Rueben Eckles also came from the territorial list. Rufus Stevens of Grambling was chosen despite the fact that his senior season was marred by injuries. Idaho's Brian Allen and Mike Caterbone from Franklin-Marshall were both taken in the open draft. One quarterback was selected in the open draft phase. Milt Myers from Whitworth College of Washington was taken in round five. A majority of the territorial selections were defensive players. Tulsa had defensive tackle Tom Baldwin, linebacker Cliff Abbott, basketball letterman Steve Ballard and linebacker James Dunlap were taken in the territorial draft. Wichita State's massive tackle James Geathers, linebacker Elwyn Holt and defensive back Billy Wilson protected. The Sooners tackle Bob Slater, linebacker Daryl Goodlow, backers Jackie Shipp and Thomas Benson were also chosen by the Outlaws in the territorial draft selection. O.S.U.'s top linebacker James Spencer plus secondary players Chris Rockins and Rod Fisher were favorites of the Outlaws as well. From the open draft, the Outlaws signed defensive back Ernie Carswell from Alabama State and chose tackle Greg Kragen from Utah State and linebacker Clarence McDade from Southern Methodist.

Four time All-Pro Mel Gray bolsters Outlaw receiver corps.

GENERAL

The press facilities are atop the west stands of Skelly Stadium and have three levels. The first level is for the working press only with 50 spaces for reporters and scouts. The second floor has three radio booths with spaces for eight workers in each, plus a VIP area. The third level is the photo deck with a roof extending 10 feet beyond the protective railing. An elevator, accessible from the outside of the stadium on the west side, serves all three levels.

PRESS REQUESTS

Press passes are limited to authorized press personnel only and should be requested as early as possible but no later than one week before the game. Press passes will be mailed if time permits and, if not, they will be left at the "will call" window on the west side of Skelly Stadium. Photographers must request press credentials and only those representing accredited media outlets will be approved. Each pass admits one to all areas and is good for press parking. All press requests and/or questions concerning such should be directed to Gil Swalls, Media Relations Director.

TELECOPIERS, TELEPHONES

All press personnel are expected to make their own arrangements for telephone installation through the Tulsa office of Southwestern Bell (918-585-6911). The Oklahoma Outlaws telephones are available on first come, first served basis. Newspaper writers may use the Oklahoma Outlaws telecopier if special arrangements are made by notifying the media relations office in advance. When ordering a telephone, please instruct the telephone company to check with the media relations office for location.

SERVICES

A snack bar is located on the first level of the press box and is available to all working press. It usually begins serving about one and one-half hours before game time. Flip cards, programs, and up-to-date information on both teams are distributed prior to the start of the game. Play-by-play and statistical data also are provided at the appropriate times. Statistics, records, injury data, etc., are supplied via the headsets in the broadcasting booths.

A REMINDER

Please remember that press personnel are expected to conduct themselves in a proper manner. This means as little unnecessary noise as possible and no cheerleading at any time for either team. Inviting spouses, guests, and children into the press box is also prohibited. Those who refuse to follow these guidelines will be asked to leave the press box and privileges will be taken away.
